II. Biographical and Background Information

The collection was compiled by Alberta Zenet (Neufang) Rosebrugh (1902-1980), wife of James Ralston Rosebrugh (1893-1967), of Atlanta, Steuben County, New York. A family historian and researcher, Alberta worked on writing a genealogy of the Rosebrugh family and collected information both through research and by contacting relatives and others. The materials appear to have been compiled between about 1962 and 1980, when Alberta passed away suddenly.

Alberta's husband, James R. Rosebrugh, was a sixth-generation descendent of Rev. John Rosebrugh, according to a letter. He served in Troop M, 1st New York Cavalry, during the Mexican Revolution and later worked for the Steuben Farm Supply in Atlanta, NY, as an agent, traveling to farms across Western New York to sell farm equipment.

Alberta and James's children were John H. Rosebrugh (1931-1942), Elinor Rosebrugh Klein, Margaret Jane "Jane" Rosebrugh Sage, and Donald Rosebrugh. Alberta was a daughter of Henry J. Neufang and Zena May Reynolds of Atlanta, New York. Though she was nearly a lifelong resident of Steuben County, she did teach in one-room schoolhouses around the area, including in Websters Crossing (Springwater) and Groveland, Livingston County, New York. She apparently moved to Cape Coral, Florida, near the end of her life.

Some materials in the collection relate directly to the Kellys, Gardners, and Rosebrughs. A brief outline of the family tree provides some context:

1. James Ralston Rosebrugh (1803-1864) m. 1831 to Christiana Kelly (d. 1881), dau. of Maj. Daniel and Mary Roup Kelly
 - i. Moses Kelly Rosebrugh (1833-1874) m. Caroline Dickerson (1846-1923)
 - I. Nellie Julia Rosebrugh (1868-1874)
 - II. Ralston H. Rosebrugh (1871-1938) m. to Marietta M. Harrison (1871-1941)
 1. James Ralston Rosebrugh (1893-1967) m. to Alberta Z. Neufang
 2. Several other children
 - Caroline Dickerson Rosebrough m. second to Winfield Scott Gardner (1851-1918)
 - III. Several Gardner children
- ii. Several other children

This collection was discovered in a garage on Dartmouth St., Rochester, New York, by Cheryl Gerstner's daughter when the house's new owner was renovating the property. A fire had damaged the home at some point prior. A possible connection of the papers to the property is that Alberta's daughter, Elinor Rosebrugh Klein, lived on Dartmouth St. until at least 1980.

After the collection was discovered, Cheryl Gerstner donated the majority of the collection to the LDS Family History Library in Pittsford, Monroe County, New York. During a reassessment of holdings, the library transferred the collection to the Livingston County Historian's Office in 2017.

In January 2022, Tracy Walker, a grandson of James R. and Alberta Rosebrugh, donated several more items from the collection of Rosebrugh materials discovered on Dartmouth St. The items that were retained comprise Folder 6 of the collection housed at the County Historian's Office.
