Finding closure and leaving an accurate and honest legacy of the impact of the Vietnam War is why more than 30 Vietnam veterans from Geneseo Central School and several long time community residents, have come together to chronicle their lives before, during, and after the war that defined their generation.

Blue Devils in Vietnam is filled with dozens of never before published photographs, letters, and personal accounts written by soldiers and family members. This is truly an insider's view of the war that nobody wanted to talk about and how the lives of three hometown men, who made the ultimate sacrifice, impacted so many.
