Livingston County Receives ‘No Designation’ in 2017 Fiscal Stress Scores

Geneseo, NY, October 1, 2018— Livingston County Administrator Ian M. Coyle announced today that the County received “no designation” in the 2017 Fiscal Stress Scores from the Office of the New York State Comptroller. The marking of “no designation” is the best a local government can receive in the scores.

The County’s 2017 Fiscal Stress Score was 3.3%, with an Environmental Score of 23.3%. The Fiscal Stress Scores were a continued improvement from 2 years ago, with the County earning a score of 9.6% in 2015 and 6.3% in 2016.

“The 2017 Fiscal Stress Scores are validation of the County’s budget measures and fiscally-sound financial controls,” said Coyle, who is also the County’s Chief Budget Officer. “These scores show that the Board of Supervisors, Elected Officials, Department Heads, County workforce and I take seriously the responsibility we hold to the taxpayers to make sure our County is on sound financial footing.”

Livingston County's score of 3.3% is lower across-the-board to all comparative sub-groups. The average score for all counties in the state was 17.7%, while for Finger Lakes counties it was 11.0%, according to the report.
